

THE GLEICHEN CALL

VOLUME XXXVI NO. 6

GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY APRIL 28, 1943

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

Victory Loan Quota for Gleichen Forty Nine Thousand Dollars

The Victory Loan got away to an early start in Gleichen. In fact it started last week when Mayor W. Bismuth bought the first bonds running into four figures.

The mayor was immediately followed by Walter Gallety an aged pensioner, who purchased bonds running into three figures. Mr. Gallety was aware some months ago that the new loan was coming up and started to save his pennies and nickles. Last week when he invested in bonds he paid spot cash with his $100.00 donations. Naturally the question arises if an aged man living solely on a pension can do this what can and what the rest do to help win the war.

Our fighting lads on the battle line in the air, on the sea and on the land, badly need help. They have all the courage and heroism that is required. They need, however, more and more munitions, equipment, supplies and foodstuffs.

Canada and other democracies entered this war almost completely unprepared, whereas Germany and Japan had strenuously prepared for years. We have, therefore, much to do yet to catch up to our enemies. Our farms and factories, however, are now turning out ever-increasing quantities of foodstuffs and munitions, but these quantities are governed entirely by the amount of money the government has with which to pay farmers for their products and to pay wages to industrial workers. Some of the money is supplied by taxes, but considerable sums must be raised by loans from the people through their purchase of Victory Bonds.

Our gallant lads are risking and giving their lives for our protection, for our freedom. They ask us only to lend our money. How can we do less. Every Victory Bond purchased will supply more and better equipment to

HALFWAY HOUSE

MICHAEL TRENT

CHAPTER X

Anne kept believing activity in large doses would be the cure for a broken heart. She spent the morning seeing to the comforts of the guests, bringing her bookkeeping up to date by jingling in the dining room conversation at lunch. That afternoon she drove to Burke for more food, going to place in Burke where she earned it really was her business. She talked to Burke before getting into the station wagon.

"Did you see Mr. Blake off Burke?" she tried to be casual about it. "His traveling was very nice. He was called away on business."

"I don't know Mr. Blake," she said. "He wanted to get out about five miles from town. Said he liked to walk early in the morning."

Anne nodded, got into the car. She could picture Erik walking along that lonely road, obviously in the direction of Sand Flats. A glad-state bag belonging to her father was missing, so Erik would be carrying that for appearances, and to smuggle away the small store of food missing from the kitchen. She well knew that he had not gone on to the town, certainly, after Burke had turned back toward Halfway House. Erik had left the road and plunged into the treacherous forest—making for the mountains. Making for Mexico, perhaps. Anne could feel alarmed for him, and suddenly Erik Kruger seemed closer to her and more important to her than he ever in years of casually accepted friendship.

It was three miles along the road that she came upon Jud riding a mule. She had the half-amused thought that never before had she seen a scarecrow mounted on a mule. Nor had she ever seen a scarecrow, a scarecrow. Jud's ugly yellow dog trotted dejectedly behind the mule. The strange country drove to one side as the scarecrow approached, then Jud gestured when he recognized Anne. She halted the car alongside him. His bewhiskered face had a dark and bony look, a tobacco-stained grin.

"Saw Mr. Blake drive by with his mule this morning," he said. "You man drove back with him. Mr. Blake leaving Halfway House?"

Anne had a sudden suspicion. She said, "I never told you his name. Who did tell you?"

"Reckon I heard it when I was at the hotel the other night."

"You don't reckon someone told you?"

"Well, it might've been." "Was it Miss Marshall?" The pretty dark-haired girl said, "Guess there ain't no harm in saying yes," the man drawled.

Anne looked at the thickly concealed diatribe. It didn't matter that Rhea Marshall and he had talked, but Anne was driven by strange curiosity to know why Rhea had been interested.

"I guess I understand," she said. "She overheard you and me discussing one of the guests that night. After I started for town, she talked with you. She wanted to know what you knew, and you told her how a man, then a guest at Halfway House, had another night hidden himself in my station wagon. You told me he had been dressed in clothes suggesting an escaped prisoner. You knew there was an escaped prisoner in the vicinity of Sand Flats, and guessed he was that prisoner. You told that girl all that."

"She said she knew all about him—"

"—at first. But Jud muttered uncomfortably. "Then she offered me fifty dollars to point out the man. She took me up to the veranda and I pointed him out through the window. She said his name was 'Blake.' He grinned crookedly. 'Can't blame a poor man for trying to earn a little money."

"But I can for doing a lot of ugly things."

"Anne never harbored no escaped prisoners, ma'am," he retorted. He spat, lifted the reins, and rode away on his mule, the yellow dog following.

Anne met Bill McRae in town. She had shopped for more than an hour in the station wagon when he purchased his car along the street. He came directly to her, his smile friendly yet uneasy.

"I told you not to talk about it, Bill," she said. "This is luck. You're the one person I want to see. I've been wanting to talk to you."

"Don't be sure he'll get over frowning," Don't be sure about Steve. He made a mistake four years ago, and now he's saving for it. He feels worse about this than you."

"I told you not to talk about it, Bill," she said. "This is love with you."

"I said a wife—a very beautiful wife. I'm sure he'll get over frowning. Don't be sure about Steve. He made a mistake four years ago, and now he's saving for it. He feels worse about this than you."

"I told you not to talk about it, Bill," she said. "This is love with you."

"I told you not to talk about it, Bill," she said. "This is love with you."

He reached out, gave her arm an encouraging squeeze, smiled. Then he turned and went across the street in the direction of Sheriff Hardy's. Anne stood there alone for a long moment, feeling worse than before meeting Bill McRae.

Steve Harvey had been haunting the timber burn ever since evidence had been turned up pointing in that direction. Having seen red stands of forest destroyed, having seen men discharging such fire, he hated fire-bugs with an inordinate violence. He wanted to find the man who had set that fire; he wanted to send that man to prison. He rode back to Square Creek in mid-afternoon, after finding the coat and necktie among some rocks in the edge of the field and not far from the scorched place in the watershed. The coat and necktie were evidence.

He saw the strange horse standing with reins tied before the administration building when he rode by to the corral to put up his cat mount. And then, returning after, he saw Rhea in the doorway.

He looked at her steadily. His hands were closed viselike on the rolled-up coat. He wondered how Rhea was so much that once he had wanted her was possible and now wanted her was not. He neither loved nor hated her now; there was no feeling for him. He said flatly, "What do you expect of me, Rhea? I told you I didn't like that. I'm in love with someone else. I can give you nothing—"

"You said you loved me," she said. "I'll make you love me again."

"You said you loved me," she said. "I'll make you love me again."

"You said you loved me," she said. "I'll make you love me again."

"You said you loved me," she said. "I'll make you love me again."

SMILE AWHILE

Mistress—Nora, I understand that you have a model husband.

Nora—Shure, mum, he's the finest a girl could have. If you could see the way he treats me, mum, you'd be saying he were a friend instead of a husband.

Housewife—And are you really content to spend your life walking around the country begging?

Tramp—No, ma'am, many's the time I wished I had a car.

Wife—I want some money.

Husband—Say, what did you do with that last dollar I gave you?

Wife—I spent thirty cents in 1938, forty cents in 1937, and twenty-three cents in 1938.

He—No woman ever takes another woman's advice about frocks.

She—Naturally. You don't ask the enemy how to win the war.

"So he said I was a polished gentleman, did he?"

"Well, yes. It meant the same thing."

"Ah! What was the exact word?"

"He said you were a slippery fellow."

Jeweller—Here's a nice little diamond ring.

Prospective Bridegroom—Well, it's O.K., but haven't you got something else cheaper?

Young Man—I want to buy a diamond ring.

Salesman—Yes, sir. How about one of our combination sets? Three pieces: Engagement, wedding and teething.

"So your name is McDonald?"

Yes.

"And you want to change it to Laurie Maurice Stevenson. Tell me, would you want to do that?"

"It's my wife's idea. She thinks I ought to have the same initials that are on our spoons and towels."

Seaman—An' there I sees a torpido, lady, 'eadin' straight for us.

Andy Kesterson—Dear me! I hope it was one of ours!

Judge—You say you have known the defendant all your life. Tell me, just whether you think he would be guilty of stealing this money?

Witness—How much was it?

Williebehn—You boys of today want too much money. Do you know what I was getting when I married your sister?

Alberta Sugar Breaks Long Record

340,000 Tons Of Sugar Beets In

Southern Alberta This Year

We have come to take our best sugar industry in Southern Alberta, pretty much for granted, but there are a few facts about the 1942 crop which we should bear in mind just as we keep things in their proper perspective.

We grew 340,000 tons of sugar beets this year on some 27,000 acres.

By the time the rain in the plants drieths some time in January we will have manufactured 100,000,000 pounds of sugar.

Farmers will receive some $2,100,000 as their share of the sugar money, of which, of course, they will have to pass along nearly a million dollars to beet labor.

The retail price of the sugar will be very close to $10.00 a pound at the selling price of about nine cents a pound.

The Government will collect from this in excise taxes about $1,650,000—Lethbridge Herald.

Bomber Press in Great Britain

(By WALTER R. LEOGE)

Agriculture plays a leading part in the war program in every country and especially in Great Britain which must of necessity import much of its food, and the editors were able to make a brief study of what is being done to help raise as much food as possible.

We found it to be a fact that many of the former beautiful flower gardens are now converted to vegetable growing. One notable example that we saw was at Windsor Castle where the flower garden in what was originally moat is now devoted to vegetables. While at the Roebuck Inn a Wyck Gress we were interested to notice that the lovely terraced gardens at the rear of this inn were now filled with vegetables.

Nearly all the Canadian crops are also growing all the vegetables that can in any odd corners of the land. At the Camp of the No. 1 Canadian Reinforcement Unit, they had a prize display of potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, onions, beans, beets and turnips which they had grown there. Last year they said, there were thirty tons of potatoes alone grown on land in the camp.

As the naval base which we visited they had fifty acres in potatoes all though it was difficult to see where they could find that much space. Everywhere we went we saw vast fields of cabbages, potatoes, and in some sections, sugar beets, and some of these fields look much larger than fields of similar products which are ordinarily seen in Canada.

We had a splendid opportunity to really study an English farm when we visited one day the Canon Court Farm in Berkshire. This farm, owned by Mr. Henry J. Purser, is probably the best farm in that section of England, as it has won the King George V prize for efficiency and the King Edward VII cup for the best cultivated farm in Berkshire. This is said to be the only cup of such nature ever given by King Edward VII.

This farm is 600 acres in area, and four tractors are used on it. Last year it produced among other things 3,200 bushels of oats, and the part planted in which produced 64 bushels to the acre. Mr. Purser was milking 41 cows when we were there.

It was interesting to learn that this farm was redeemed from tithes only five years ago. Up until that time tithes had been paid annually to Oxford University.

The farm buildings are extensive well laid out, and built of brick. The barns are much more substantial than the usual ones in Canada, and when I asked the Canadian editors asked how old these barns were, he was informed that "they were comparatively modern having been built only 140 years ago."

Another of the editors remarked that it would be difficult to find a barn in Canada that was over one hundred years old, whereas he was asked if the people of Canada did not know how to take care of their buildings.

Mr. Purser showed some extra fine cabbages and marrows which he had brought back from Covent Garden market the previous day because he was unable to sell them. Apparently just at that season there was more produce than could be sold.

Although farmers in England are encouraged to raise pigs, they are allowed to retain only a certain proportion for themselves. While the editors were in England there was an item in the newspapers telling of a farmer and butcher, Stanley Platt, of Church Farm, Branscombe, who was fined one hundred pounds for killing two pigs when he only had a license to slaughter one.

Carrying out government regulations was not the only problem that Mr. Purser and his family had to contend with. They showed a large collection of fire bombs which had fallen on their farm many of them in February 1941. They had put in several nights of hard work extinguishing incendiaries.

For some reason onions are not a satisfactory crop in England but there are some grown, although not nearly enough for the demand. Some good specimens were seen at Amersham, and here the owner had carefully tied cotton over the tops to save the seed.

The writer visited the agricultural fair at Cheltenham which was being held in the city hall there. There were very fine displays of vegetables especially potatoes, cabbages, turnips and beans. Scarlet runner beans are a highly regarded food in England, and some of the largest pods at this fair were fourteen inches long. Carrots and onions were not as good as would be seen at a fair in Canada but on the whole the exhibits displayed compare favorably with Canadian produce.

There were several exhibits of eggs and also dressed rabbits.

Gloucester, only a few miles from Cheltenham is noted for its sheep fair and the same afternoon, I visited an interesting event. This is really a sheep market, and the buyers are mostly farmers or sheep dealers seeking to improve their flocks.

There were nearly 10,000 sheep there, all herded into pens about ten feet square. The average price that for a sheep was said to be between fifty and sixty shillings. A workman told us that the farmers try to replace their herds every two years.

Practically all the people of England are doing all they can to help by growing all the vegetables that they can. In addition to turning private gardens into vegetable patches, there are 1,700,000 allotments of land being utilized in Britain. People spend their leisure hours digging in these plots which are let to them at a nominal fee.

This past year there were good crops of apples, plums and pears grown in Britain, and there is also a small quantity of grapes grown there. One thing that was strange to Canadian eyes was the training of apple trees on stone walls. A good example of this was seen on the walls around the Bishop's Palace at Wells.

War Agriculture Committee functions in every county to try to increase agricultural production, and these committees strive to get every acre possible ploughed up and planted in vegetables. The reason for this is that ten acres in pasture will

Three for People's Fertilizer

During the severe winter, men experienced over a wide area of the prairie provinces in March of this year, the value of established fertilizers in reducing wind velocity and controlling snow accumulation around farm buildings, in fields, and along roads was well illustrated. Farmers! Now is a good time to make plans to eliminate some of the inconvenience experienced there, and to put fertilizers to work to your advantage. See to it that snow accumulates where it will benefit your alfalfa or hay field, your garden area and your fruit plantation, and not pile up in the yard and on the road.

Additional benefits are obtained from the use of fertilizers. Improved appearance, increased bird life, reduced insect damage, much better grass and a supply of open spots and fuel.

Persons desiring to plant on bona fide farm property are available from The Forest Nursery, St. Paul, Minn., and in almost unlimited number, FREE of charge. Millions of these go out to thousands of planters each spring. Are YOU taking advantage of this service?

For evergreen trees there is a charge of $1.00 per 100, and to say one planter in any one year a minimum of 50 trees and a maximum of 500 trees will be supplied; planters pay express charges.

Broadleaf and evergreen trees are NOT shipped together. Before these trees will be supplied planters must prepare land for them by a credit summerfall for one year. Keep this regulation in mind. The summer but your security for trees for 1944 planting should be mailed to The Forest Nursery, Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, NOW.—Contributed by John Walker, Superintendent, The Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

not support more than four people, but ten acres of potatoes will maintain 21, or in wheat will maintain 12.

This agricultural work is a big part of the war effort, and Britain was blessed last year with a splendid crop.

Good Friday was observed in town as a holiday. It was some holiday since real estate in the shape of a dust storm moved briskly. It fact it was the best dust storm we have had for many months. It certainly put an end to gardening and stopped all outdoor work.

A fable is a steam winding life with a moral attachment. The secret of ignorance is not to know your lack of wisdom.

To Help Him NOW ... and When He Comes Home

YOUR SON (or your neighbor's son) is in battle dress perhaps on a ship at sea, or flying a bomber. You are proud of him, but you pray for the time when he will be back home. You will do anything you can, you say, ... everything you can ... to bring him home safe, and bring him home soon.

Well, here is one thing you can do: You can buy Victory Bonds.

When you buy Victory Bonds you help your boy to do the big job he is doing now. You help to make sure that he has everything he needs; better equipment than the enemy has. And you are saving money to have a better home for your boy to return to.

HAVE MONEY FOR HIM WHEN HE COMES HOME

He will want to work with new farm implements ... new equipment ... to replace things that may be worn out. He will have new ideas to improve the farm. He may want to experiment with new crops, new stock, new farming methods. He's young and ambitious as you want him to be.

He will need money to do things he plans to do. Victory Bonds ... money saved now and loaned to Canada to help win the war ... will be yours and his to use when the war is over.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half-yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity. A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest. A Victory Bond is as secure as money readily converted into cash when any other security.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Men Born From 1902 to 1924 Must Prove Compliance with Mobilization Regulations When Asking Permits to Seek Employment

By Order pursuant to National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, a change is now made in the issue of permits to seek employment.

After April 30, 1943, permits may be refused to any man born from 1902 to 1924, inclusive, who has reached 18, unless he presents satisfactory evidence of compliance with Mobilization Regulations, in one of the following forms:

(a) A certificate of discharge from His Majesty's Forces during this war; or (b) a rejection slip issued by the Army on application for enlistment; or (c) a certificate of medical examination from the Registrar of a Mobilization Board; or (d) a participation order from the Registrar of a Mobilization Board; or (e) if born from 1902 to 1910 inclusive, a statutory declaration on form available in employment office, that he is not a "single person" under Mobilization Regulations.

Documents in (a), (b) and (c) above need be presented only the first time a permit is sought after April 30, 1943, unless asked for by a Selective Service Officer. Documents in (d) and (e) above must be presented each time a permit is applied for.

(1) Male persons applying for permits by mail should forward with their applications the evidence required, except (a) above.

(2) A Selective Service Officer MAY furnish a permit without first being handed evidence, where the applicant's services are required for immediate employment, or where a permit is asked for by mail, but in these cases the evidence must be presented to the Selective Service Officer later, usually WITHIN THREE DAYS of the time of the permit.

All men born from 1902 to 1924, who have reached age 19, are urged to co-operate with your Employment and Selective Service Office. Bring your documents with you.

NOW WE RECOMMEND ALL-BRAN TO ALL OUR FRIENDS

Says Mrs. Joseph Pare, Montreal, Quebec: "I used Kellogg's All-Bran much more satisfactory than pills or powders. Nearly all my family suffered from constipation. Our friends suggested All-Bran, and, indeed, powder, but relief was only temporary. Now we eat All-Bran regularly and recommend it to our friends."

Instead of waiting until you suffer and then doing yourself with harsh purgatives, try All-Bran's "Better Way" to correct the cause of constipation due to the lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet. Eat it daily and drink plenty of water. You will find that All-Bran works like a cathartic; it takes time, but it is a healthy, regular and recommended to our friends."

CHAPTER IV.

JACK STOREY returned to the desk of Captain Lebeau. "What is it, monsieur?" "I am not sure," he said. "I had expected to be finished with your case by this time," replied the captain. "But I did not really expect that girl to be Annette Fournier," he said. "I have heard of her, but I have not seen her. Suppose you tell me about that street scene," he said. "You killed that man?"

To deny the charge would be to shift the blame to Annette, giving the authorities the excuse they needed to send her to the guillotine. So Jack Storey said, "Yes, I am sorry."

Captain Lebeau listened to the story of the meeting with Annette Fournier, and then said, "You have been away from the desert, and you have been with the French authorities in time to see his plans."

LEAGUE OF CANADA PRESENTS
+ VITAL INTEREST
HAZARDS OF THE HOME

"Make Your Home Safe, an article in a recent issue of 'Hygiene' provides warning and advice for the careless home-lover, who disregard hazards which exist in his home, may find himself a hospital patient as the result of an accident."

The more obvious dangers such as loaded firearms, toys strewn around the floors and on stairways; bottles of poison not properly labelled; sharp-edged implements and matches within reach of children, are readily recognized, says the article, but other accidents, the contributing causes of accidents within the home also require attention."

Stairways should be ample in width, and constructed with proper consideration for the horizontal as well as the vertical spatial relations. A size 11 foot, says the article, does not fit well on a stair tread. Wide, shallow treads are easier on both the muscles and the heart."

Super-waxed floors are a potential danger, says the article, and rug should be kept in good repair to avoid the possibility of catching the feet in frayed binders, etc. The wearing of soft bedroom slippers and bare feet, down shoes, no matter how comfortable, may result in a wrenched or sprained ankle when the feet slip and down stairs in loose slippers, for it may mean a nasty fall."

Rubber mats should be used in bathrooms, and the floor should be hand provided for the hand to grasp firmly. Gas heaters and stoves which are not properly installed and used. Electric cords should not be pulled from sockets with the current still turned on, and electrical appliances should not be used if they have a defective wiring."

Included in the list of things to avoid are the use of knives and forks with unserrated needles, and the treating of corns and calluses with knives and scissors; both contributing causes of dangerous infection."

HAS ARTIFICIAL HANDS Edward T. Mitchell of Cardiff, Wales, who lost both hands in a gun explosion, has an artificial pair supplied by the Ministry of Munitions in a hospital in London. He can write, handle the telephone and index cards and is handy with a knife and fork at home.

News Items of Local Interest

The Alberta Farm for Victory Committee has issued a call for volunteer drivers to assist farmers through the cross new living in the fields. School boys 14 years and over are being asked to help with the work.

Monday night the Indians staged a big dance and banquet at the Crowfoot hall. It began to look as though every time the Indians put on a dance the white people get busy and stage one although either dance does not in any way detract from the other.

Klips Schmidt, R.C.A.F., Bagotville, Que., spent a couple of days in town last week. Klips states there is not much to attract him here now since every one of his former playmates have enlisted and are scattered all over the universe, but still there is something about the old town he likes.

Support for Alberta's Farm for Victory plan has been given by the Dominion and as the first contribution the Ottawa government will assume part of the costs of maintaining field men to organize production and labor schemes throughout the province.

The spring fever has hit W. J. Pughlin, secretary-treasurer of the town during the past couple of weeks he has kept J. E. Nicholas busy. The bushes surrounding the monument have been cut down to about two feet from the ground which is a decided improvement and shows the monument to advantage. We now know what is in the lawn by the Community Hall. The lawn in front of the town office has been dug up and new seed will be planted, also bushes. W. J. states when he gets through with the improvements he has in mind, the tax payers will find great joy in wandering through the garden to his office to pay their taxes and other accounts due to the town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bogstie and daughter Peggy left during the weekend for Minot, N. D., to attend the funeral of Mr. Bogstie's brother, Henry. They expect to be away to be away about two weeks.

Fredrick Brown, R.C.A.F., who is located at Trenton, Ontario, arrived in town last week en route to his home in Arrowwood for a visit. He left for Edmonton Sunday afternoon. He will return the latter part of this week then head for Trenton to resume his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Schmidt will move to Gleichen from Calgary shortly. For several years now Mr. Schmidt has been engaged in Ogden but the indoor life didn't agree with his health consequently he resigned in position and will return to town to open up his machine shop.

Last week the Indians received their lease money. Other years each received $2 but this time only about half that amount. The balance will be paid at a later date. All the stores and especially the restaurants did make $150. Mr. A. stoat subdug a roaring business and had extra help on hand to serve the crowd. The white brothers were on hand endeavoring to collect money the Indian may have owed them for services rendered in the past.

Despite gasoline rationing and other restrictions car licenses in Alberta this year do not appear likely to fall far short of the previous year's total. For instance a compilation made by the provincial government officials near the end of March showed that 21,000 passenger car licenses had been issued. At the same date a year ago, the total was 21,000. A year ago, it was pointed out, there was a rush to buy licenses in March due to a number of factors which were influenced by the prospect of rationing. This year there was not the same rush in March as it is believed that the rationing system has become more stabilized.

A profession of faith

We have faith in Canada. We have faith in her past. We have faith in the pioneers and the spirit which achieved Confederation and linked a continent with the shining steel of railways have laid strong foundations for national greatness and unity. We have faith in her present. In the part she is playing to save the world from tyranny. In her young men and women who serve on land and sea and in the air. In her workers who labour for more than wages. In every man and woman and child striving for Victory. We have faith in her future. Believing that she is destined to exert an ever-increasing influence in world affairs, and in the shaping of tomorrow, when many will turn to her with new hope.

We have faith in more than the statistics of Canada's bank clearings and her car-loadings, the vastness of her untapped resources, or even the glorious war record of a people numbering less than twelve millions. We have faith in a faith in a land we love, whose soul speaks to us from every free acre of Canadian soil. In the splendour of the Rockies at sunset, the blue mystery of a Laurentian dawn, the quiet of an Ontario woodlot, the far call of prairie horizons, the sound of surf on the Atlantic shore and the wash of the Pacific tides. It speaks to us from churchyards where Canadian dead lie beneath the tribute of English blossoms. From the poppy fields of France and Flanders. From the winged and seafaring and mechanized epics of a new war. We have faith in a faith in her people. In people, noted and obscure, with whom we daily rub shoulders. In and by whose united effort, sacrifice and creative vigour the greater Canada of tomorrow will be built.

We have faith in Canada
